Practice Summary

Graeme's clients include developers, landowners, local planning authorities and he is instructed by solicitors and planning consultants. His practice covers advocacy and advisory work and he frequently appears at Public Inquiries, Hearings and Examinations.

Graeme is currently instructed on a range of matters including: the promotion at appeal of several housing developments in England, including in the Green Belt and National Landscapes (AoNB), the promotion of a c.1,300 home development on MoD land in Kent, several logistics and industrial developments and two Local Plan Examinations.

Graeme is listed in Planning Magazine's Top Rated Planning Silks 2023, Chambers and Partners and Legal 500.

Planning

Graeme is a highly experienced Public Inquiry advocate who acts for developers, local government and other interested parties. His advisory and appeal work includes: housing; logistics; retail; heritage; highways; schools; major infrastructure projects; compulsory purchase; and enforcement. Much of his Inquiry work has involved appeals recovered by the Secretary of State. Graeme also acts both for and against local planning authorities at Local Plan Examinations and appears at Development Consent Order hearings. His court experience ranges from High Court work (including judicial review and statutory appeals) to the Magistrates Court (including defending prosecutions for breach of enforcement notices).

Graeme provides strategic advice on the preparation of development schemes and technical advice on the expert evidence required to support applications and appeals. He regularly works with large teams on projects, including expert witnesses in a wide range of disciplines.

Graeme is listed in Planning Magazine's Top Rated Planning Silks 2023, Chambers and Partners and Legal 500.

On-going matters include:

The promotion (including at appeal) of several residential developments in, for example, Surrey, Wiltshire, Hampshire, Dorset, Oxfordshire, Lincolnshire, London, (and includes sites in the Green Belt and National Landscapes (AoNB)), the promotion of logistics and industrial developments in Hampshire and Surrey, the promotion of land for allocation - for large scale residential and commercial development - in several emerging Local Plans. Advising on the promotion of two emerging Local Plans.

Compulsory Purchase and Compensation

Graeme has considerable compulsory purchase experience, in particular at Inquiry, where he has promoted CPOs for a wide variety of developments including: housing; an academy school; highways schemes; and regeneration projects (including: Liverpool, Preston, Slough and Blackburn). Graeme has also acted for objectors to CPOs, for example in relation to protecting commercial interests and heritage assets, including successfully opposing Manchester's CPO of the former London Road Fire Station.
