Public and Administrative

Julia is a public law, EU and ECHR specialist. She frequently appears unled in high-profile cases, and is praised by the legal directories as being “a truly excellent public law specialist,” who is “phenomenally gifted”, “extremely clever and very effective”, as well as “phenomenally hard working” and “approachable and responsive.” Julia won the award for ‘Human Rights and Public Law Junior of the Year’ at the Chambers UK Bar Awards 2022.

Prior to returning to self-employed practice in 2012, Julia had a successful career as a senior government lawyer. She is recognised by the legal directories as bringing her “experience as counsel for various government departments to claimant work, giving practical insights into how public bodies make decisions on the ground.”

Julia has particular expertise in EU and Withdrawal Agreement law, human rights and civil liberties, social security, health, immigration and free movement law, as well as experience in a broad range of other areas including education, police pensions, parking regulation and environment law and animal welfare.

EU Law post-Brexit

Julia is an “EU law expert” (Chambers and Partners). She has been instructed in a wide range of areas of EU law, including citizens’ rights, social security, the environment, motor insurance and tax. Julia is also recognised for her expertise in Brexit-related issues (both the Withdrawal Agreement and retained EU law). She has appeared or is instructed in most of the leading cases testing post-exit citizens’ rights issues in the CJEU, Supreme Court, Court of Appeal and lower courts.

Human Rights and Civil Liberties

Julia’s experience of human rights and civil liberties work spans a range of areas, including health, social security, education, human trafficking, and the immigration context. She frequently appears unled in ground-breaking cases, including the high-profile challenge to the abortion legislation brought by Heidi Crowter, a disability rights campaigner.

Julia won the award for human rights and public law junior of the year at the Chambers UK Bar Awards 2022.

Judicial Review

Julia has many years’ experience of judicial review, gained both from her in-house experience as a government lawyer, and her practice since returning to the self-employed Bar in 2012. She acts for both claimants and defendants in a wide range of areas.

Her work in recent years includes successfully representing claimant car parking organisations in a major challenge to government’s flagship policy on the regulation of private car parks; successfully acting for claimants in a systemic challenge to the Government’s exclusion from free nursery care of children whose parents have no recourse to public funds; and acting for the Government in three linked challenges to the high-profile “pushback” policy (small boats).

Immigration

Julia is experienced in all aspects of immigration and nationality law, having acted in courts from the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeal to the First-tier Tribunal. The directories describe her as a “phenomenally gifted technical barrister” in this field.

Her expertise includes trafficking, asylum, deportation, appeal rights, deprivation of citizenship, good character (nationality) and sponsorship (previously known as Tier 2) cases. Julia has particular expertise in EU free movement law, and is described by the directories as a “genuine and outstanding free-movement specialist” with “an encyclopaedic knowledge of free movement issues”.

International

Described by Legal 500 as a “genuine and outstanding free movement specialist who handles cases beyond her call” and “an effective advocate with an encyclopaedic knowledge of free movement issues,” Julia is experienced in all aspects of EU law. She has been instructed in many recent test cases, often as sole counsel.

As a senior government lawyer, Julia was closely involved in many ground-breaking social security and EU free movement cases in the domestic courts and CJEU and established and chaired a cross-government group on EU free movement issues. She also spent several years as a lawyer advising the government on the regulation of medicines and medical devices.

NHS, Health and Community Care

Julia has advised on and appeared in a number of high-profile issues and challenges, including challenges arising from the Government's response to the Covid-19 pandemic (such as the "traffic light" system, the social isolation rules, and a case about "rationing" of health care), as well as two highly-publicised abortion challenges in the Court of Appeal.

Julia's experience in the health field spans social care, NHS continuing care, the National Institute for Clinical Excellence and commissioning. As a government lawyer, Julia advised on foundation trusts, failing NHS trusts, organ donation, NHS fraud, NHS reconfiguration, the private patient cap, prison health and work with special health authorities. Julia also worked for several years as a legal adviser to the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency, specialising in the regulation of medicines and medical devices.

Social Security

Julia is experienced in all aspects of social security law, appearing in cases from the Supreme Court to the First-tier Tribunal. She has appeared in many of the leading cases in the Court of Appeal and Supreme Court concerning the "right to reside" test and EU social security co-ordination law, as well as high-profile and sensitive ECHR and domestic law challenges. Before returning to chambers, Julia was a senior lawyer at DWP.

EU Law post-Brexit

Julia is an "EU law expert" (Chambers and Partners). She has been instructed in a wide range of areas of EU law, including citizens' rights, social security, the environment, motor insurance and tax. Julia is also recognised for her expertise in Brexit-related issues (both the Withdrawal Agreement and retained EU law). She has appeared or is instructed in most of the leading cases testing post-exit citizens' rights issues in the CJEU, Supreme Court, Court of Appeal and lower courts.
